This talk will introduce you to a new approach to play in libraries being pioneered in Madison Public Libraries, based on a groundbreaking educational approach developed in China by Ms. Cheng Xueqin of Anji County called Anji Play.

Learn how Carissa Christner has been working with U.S. AnjiPlay experts to adapt their educational approach into a mobile, library-friendly format that both kids and parents love.

See how Carissa and Rebekah Willett have developed workable tools to address parent learning outcomes and to gather children’s and parents’ reflections within a non-school setting.
